DEAR SIR/MADAM,

I am currently pursuing a career in software development and hoping to get a career in the field of quantitative trading. I think I would make an excellent addition to the team at wolverine I have grown quite passionate about day trading and leveraging ai and mathematics to do so over the last number of years. Through looking for a place to do my summer internship I came across your ad on indeed for a Quantitative Trader Intern for this summer. After looking through your requirements I believe my skill set would be put to good use and be great asset to your company.

My experience with day trading stocks personally has helped to learn about how the market works and how to make a profit off the ups and downs that happen daily in this exciting and lucrative career, as well as how to properly manage risk. Which has in turn reflected in my constantly improving strategies. That together with my schooling in software development has given me the ability to pursue a career in trading using software, Artificial Intelligence, and Machine Learning to make more informed decisions and mitigate risk from human error.

Furthermore, through my experience in working with lots of different teams over the years in multiple different fields to produce all sorts of desired products for end customers, I have demonstrated my ability to be a strong link in any team, and a team leader whenever an opportunity presents itself. I also enjoy working in a busy and exciting environment and thrive under pressure which I believe is an excellent quality to have in the constantly changing world of financial assets trading.

Thank you for taking the time to read through my resume and consider me for the position.
